

CORGI EXPERT WITNESS SERVICES

Trust the unbiased and professional opinions of our experienced and qualified gas experts

Impartial, professional investigations and reporting from the gas experts

Expert witness services in gas safety & CO incidents

CORGI Technical Services provides an expert witness service in gas safety and carbon monoxide (CO) incidents. After an incident has occurred, we investigate and provide an unbiased professional opinion to support the process that follows.

The expert witness team all hold professional qualifications including technical gas safety, incident investigation and expert witness procedures in accordance with both the Criminal Procedure Rules and Civil Procedure Rules. Having worked in the gas industry for over 30 years each, our team have a vast pool of knowledge, including current codes of practice, standards and regulations.

Each member of the team holds accreditation in the form of the Cardiff University Law School Bond Solon Expert Witness Certificate and can provide gas safety expert opinion in various ways, from producing reports through to court appearances.

The team is experienced in the investigation of fatal and non-fatal CO incidents caused by gas appliances and faulty workmanship. Our experts provide independent, unbiased and professional expert opinions and are trained in the responsibilities of a single joint expert.
